

The Chaperon project invites you to a student event

Scientific Blind Dates

(Now with Pizza!)

Participants should prepare in advance a talk lasting maximum 5 min, aimed at explaining their PhD studies and research to a member of the scientific community who is unfamiliar with their topic

The event is geared towards PhD students as an opportunity to practice their scientific presentation skills in an informal setting, however anybody who wishes to join should feel welcome - with even less formal socializing after the event being anticipated 😊

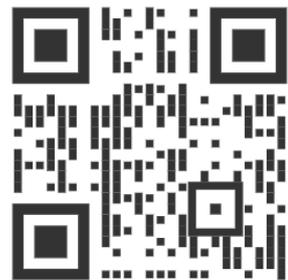

Time and place: 22nd of March 3 pm, at seminar room 01.2.21 in the Biomedical Center

Advanced registration would be helpful in order to estimate purchase of pizza, refreshments, etc...
